Technology has always made things smaller and more user-friendly. Computers, for example, have developed into either personal or laptop computers, and even evolved into tablets. Tablets are known as lighter, thinner, and more convenient to carry around than laptops. They often come with 16-64 GB of storage which makes them more powerful to meet most users' needs. Equipped with touchscreen and virtual keyboard, most tablets are capable of taking pictures, shooting videos, or editing documents. In addition, the Wi-Fi capability allows users to surf the Web and deal with emails anywhere.

Tablets are quickly taking hold in the business world and frequently used by professionals. If that isn't enough, consider that they can use one of the fastest growing technological tools today – apps. Apple company, the leading producer of tablets in the world, tries to make a lot of their own apps, but which are easily made by third parties and new one are being made every day. It's clear that technology will continue to improve in the future and tablets will be an essential part of your daily life.

Welcome everybody. My name is April Thompson, the leader of the campus volunteer club. I am so excited to see many of you interested in tutoring at the local elementary schools. We have been short of people and would like to have more volunteers to join us. We don't require that you have had experience working with children, and we are willing to train anyone interested. We not only need people to teach the kids, but also to assist the teachers at the schools. Although many of our volunteers are education majors, we definitely welcome those from all other departments and with different interests.

Because we will be going to the schools twice a week to work with the children, we need someone who can manage their time efficiently. This is a service organization so unfortunately we cannot pay you for your time. However, we hope that you will have found this work to be rewarding by helping the community that we live in after joining us. If any of you are still interested in joining our group, please come to me after the meeting. Please be prepared to start right away because our next trip to the schools is going to be in three days.

Ten years ago, something happened to me that changed my life forever: I broke my leg. At the time, I was a very athletic man. I regularly went to the gym and took part in team sports. I thought I had the perfect life, and then came my accident. It happened after I had been playing basketball with my colleagues at the bank. As I was getting into my car, I slipped and fell badly. When I was recovering in the hospital later, I couldn't help but feel impressed by the care that the nurses gave me. They were so thoughtful and gentle but also knowledgeable about medicine. They inspired me, and I realized that I wanted to become a nurse, too. It was a tough decision to make, and I was nervous about leaving my job as a bank clerk. Despite that, I was determined because I knew that I wanted to do something different with my life. Now, ten years after a nasty fall altered the course of my future, my life is about to change again. This time, it's for a better reason, though. My wife has just gotten a job in another city, so we're moving and I'm going to work in another hospital. I don't mind starting something new. I like a challenge, and my wife is crazy about her new job. I'm very happy that I get the chance to be adventurous, and I wouldn't change a thing about my life, even that broken leg!
